POLITICS INTRODUCED INTO THE NORTHWEST CONFERENCE.

Minister Advises Use of Dynamite Against the Democracy and Is Called Down by the Bishop.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. LAFAYETTE, Ind., Sept. 8.-There was a sensation at the Methodist conference here to-day. Secretary DeLong presented the report of the temperance committee which, aside from denouncing all clubhouses as the gilded place where the first step to a drunkard's grave is taken, was rather mild. Dr. Hickman moved to substitute the report adopted last year, which was for independent action at the ballot box; in fact, a Prohibition party plank. This started a furious debate that presently threatened to disrupt the conference. Even the interposition of the Bishop was for a time in vain. Rev. R. D. Utter was the first to protest against being pledged to a third party movement. He had always voted the Republican ticket, and said he did not believe in third parties. He thought the greatest political sin was to vote for a Democrat, and next to that was to vote the third party ticket. Rev. Allen Lewis was even more tempestuous. After proceeding in his fiery talk he debe blown to hell with dynamite." This started an uproar. Ministers cried "For shame," and the Bishop demanded a retraction of the language. Rev. Lewis, however, in his explanation, could see nothing but "guns and dynamite" for Democrats if they be given their deserts. Dr. McLennon denounced the last year's temperance committee's report, saying it was not only a bad report, but that it contained false statements and declared that no man nor body of men could dictate to him how he should vote. However, the substitute was voted upon and passed by a vote of 48 to 42. This only increased the bitter feeling, and other speeches followed equally inflamatory, until the cooler heads, as well as the Prohibition ministers, saw a prospective split coming. Wiser cour then prevailed and the substitute was laid clared that the "Democratic party should

Secretary John A. Maxwell was in-structed to have printed 2,000 copies of the proceedings. A number of visiting ministers, some from other conferences, were introduced and the committee's report on conference boundaries was approved and a commission appointed. The report advocated the dividing of the State into three conferences. A board of examiners, numbering ten, whose duty is to examine candidates for the ministry, is to be appointed. These boards are to meet a month or two months each year prior to the assembly of the conference. The committee to whom was referred the charges against Rev. E. G. Pelley, who had been suspended pending conference action, reported that the accusations against Mr. Pelley were not sustained and he was fully exonerated from the charge. Mr. Pelley was last stationed at Burlington, in Carroll county.

Rev. Isaac Dale, who had been on the supernumerary list, was placed on the active list. Rev. Samuel Godfrey and Rev. D. W. Fisher were placed on the super-D. W. Fisher were placed on the super-annuated list. Rev. R. D. Black, of the Nebraska Conference, was permitted to address the ministers present on the condition of their clerical brethren in his State. He made a strong appeal to them for aid for the suffering ministers out in that

State, and as a result the sum of about $100 was raised. Conference trustees were elected as follows: Ministers, J. W. Greene, David Handley, C. A. Brooke and T. F. Drake; laymen, C. G. Miller, A. W. Caldwell and George Godfrey. Shelbyville for Law and Order. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

SHELBYVILLE, Ind., Sept. 8 .- The recently-elected city officers took their seats last Monday morning and immediately began a campaign to close up the saloons and gambling dens, which had been operat-ing in violation of law, and had full police protection under former administrations. The county fair has been going on all week, but the usual games which have heretofore filled the saloons with a crowd of men and boys have not been spread, and as a consequence it has been the most quiet fair week that Shelbyville has ever known. Last night Marshal Sparks and his deputies raided the gambling rooms of Charles Skotskie, and captured about half a dozen sports playing poker. A few of the players jumped out the second-story window and made their escape.

Salem Fair Closes.

Loss May Reach $30,000.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. CARTHAGE, Ind., Sept. 8. - The large three-story straw and rotary building of the Leonard Paper-box Company here was destroyed by fire last night. If the six large rotaries contained in this building are not injured the loss will be about $15,000, but if they are damaged, the loss will amount to about $30,000. It was by hard work on the part of the fire company connected with the factory, the fire department of the town and the citizens in general that the remainder of the factory, valued at $150,000, was saved. The loss is covered by insurance. The company will at once begin to rebuild, larger and better than ever.

Muncie Weddings.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. MUNCIE, Ind., Sept. 8 .- Mr. Charles E. Sanders, employed by the Joseph A. Goddard wholesale grocery, was married Wednesday night to Miss Anna F., daughter of Mr. James McCormick, north of the city. Rollin Lemington, a young attorney in Muncie, was married on the same date to Miss Callie Harman, of near Yorktown.

READY FOR THE G.A.R.

PITTSBURG AND ALLEGHENY A MASS OF PATRIOTIC COLORS.

Streets Rapidly Filling with Veterans -Preparations for the Big Parade and Review on Tuesday.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 8 .- Pittsburg and Allegheny are one mass of waving, fluttering, patriotic colors to-day. A heavy rainstorm last night did considerable damage to the decorations. To-day the sun shone brightly, and the prospects are for bright weather during the whole of G. A. R. encampment week. As a result the damaged decorations are being torn down and replaced by new material, and in many cases more gorgeous and costly designs are substituted.

The streets are rapidly filling with visitors, and the modest blue uniform of the G. A. R. is very much in evidence. Every train coming into the city adds to the influx, the early arrivals consisting mainly of veterans with their families. To-night several organizations of naval veterans arrived. They will be quartered on steamboats on the Monongahela river and will live during their stay here in the same manner, so far as possible, as they did when seeing active service off some beleaguered Atlantic coast city. Arrangements have been made to entertain 2,000 of these ancient mariners. To-morrow big crowds are expected, and on Monday the visitors will come by tens of thousands. The early trains of Tuesday will bring enormous throngs from the nearer cities

The police are closely scrutinizing every arrival, and "fakirs" and "crooks" are given their choice of taking the next train out of town or going to the workhouse. To-morrow the local police will be assisted by a large corps of out-of-town detectives, representing almost every prominent city in the country. At least half the churches in the two cities will be given up to-morrow to veterans. Army chaplains will occupy a number of the pulpits, and the local pastors have generally selected subjects likely to be of interest to the old soldiers.

Preparations are being made for the big parade on Tuesday. Iron posts are being set up at the curb all along the route, and wire rope will be stretched along to keep the crowds off the roadway. The Mayors of the two cities have issued a proclamation to the citizens, asking that Tuesday be observed as a holiday in all the manufacturing plants. This request will be generally obeyed, and it is estimated that at least half a million persons will see the tigue during the march, or spectators who ance, 1,500. Score: may be injured in the crowd, temporary Pittsburg. hospitals, with physicians and trained as-sistants, have been established along the route, under the charge of the surgeons of the National Guard of Pennsylvania. There is no lack of funds for the suitable entertainment of the old soldiers and their friends. A sum of $125,000 has been raised for the purpose. Of this $75,000 was subscribed by citizens, $30,000 was appropriated by the cities of Pittsburg and Allegheny and the balance was raised by the sale of privileges, etc.

Among the more prominent of the advance guard of the G. A. R. people who have been flocking into town to-day is Gen. William Warner, of Kansas City, who was in 1888 commander in chief. A number of Williamsport, Pa., posts came in to-night at 11:30 over the Pennsylvania

The Monongahela House will be national headquarters for the G. A. R. and Woman's Relief Corps as well as for the National ex-Prisoners of War Association and the commercial clubs of St. Paul and Louisville, both of which cities are working hard to have the twenty-ninth annual encampment. Resolutions for the G. A. R.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 .- Spirited controversies between ex-office holders marked a special meeting of Union veterans who have been discharged from government employ, held in G. A. R. Hall to-night. About fifty discharged veterans were present, representing the various departments, but a tong series of heated wrangles prevented important action, except the adoption of resolutions offered by Thomas H. McKee, assistant secretary of the national Republican committee, which will be presented at the Pittsburg encampment. It was also decided to forward resolutions offered by William Potter, a discharged War Department clerk, denouncing the actions of this and former administrations, and denouncing Colonel Ainsworth, chief of the records and pension division, demanding the appointment by Congress of a committee to investigate the charges against him and remove him if they are substantiated. Mr. McKee's resolutions were as follows: "Resolved, By the G. A. R. in national encampment assembled September, 1894, that the ex-Union soldiers of the United States accept the challenge offered by the present administration of the national government in diregarding the rights of ex-Union soldiers under a national statute by almost wholesale discharges of those employed in the public service or the United

"Resolved, That the ballot is our refuge by force of an unfriendly administration.
"Resolved, That Col. F. C. Ainsworth, chief of the record and pension division of the War Department, has shown himself to be the common enemy of the ex-Union soldiers both by official and private power. "Resolved, That all ex-soldiers be asked to commit their representatives in Congress to the removal of said Ainsworth from the position he now holds in the cause of justice and humanity."

LIGHTNING'S WORK.

Many Places in Illinois Struck and Two Villages Burned. CHICAGO, Sept. 8. - Lightning played havoc in various towns and villages in Illinois last night. The business portion of Malta, a small town of six hundred inhabitants, is in ashes, with losses aggregating $50,000. The little settlement of Henrietta was also visited by lightning and wiped out. The loss will not prove very extensive. At Caledonia four buildings were struck at different times and each of those structures was destroyed. The people had hard work to save the schoolhouse situated near by. Rockford came in for its share of flames, and in that town three fires were caused by lightning. At Belvidere a physician's stable was struck and burned, together with two horses. Huntley suffered the loss of three buildings, one of which was a stable. In the latter instance four horses were burned. At Herbett two buildings were burned. The Northwestern railroad track, for a stretch of three hundred feet, at Trout Park, is washed out by the flood. At Geneva a washout occurred on the Air-line, carrying away a large sec-tion of the roadbed. Whole fields of corn were washed out.

Tough Hailstone Story. PLATTEVILLE, Wis., Sept. 8 .- Never has Platteville been visited by such a severe hailstorm as struck this city at about 3 o'clock to-day. Hail as large as walnuts fell for about an hour, breaking window panes, completely demolishing sky-lights and leaving orchards and cornfields devastated as though a tornado had struck them. A peculiar feature of the storm was its narrow limit, towns within five miles of here getting a little rain but no hail at all. For two hours after the storm Platteville looked to be in winter dress, and citizens were using snow shovels to clear their sdiewalks. The hail fell to the depth of two inches.

Heavy Rainfall. NEW YORK, Sept. 8 .- The rainstorm here was unusually severe. The Third avenue cables gave out and an accident delayed travel on the Brooklyn bridge. The rainfall was the heaviest of the year. amounting to 1.71 inches. William Smith, a fisherman, was killed at Newark bay by lightning. Lightning also struck the Monmouth while the steamer was en route from the Atlantic highlands to this city. Captain Martin was slightly injured and the passengers were greatly alarmed for a few minutes.

Severe Windstorm.

MUSCODA, Wis., Sept. 8 .- A severe windstorm, amounting almost to a tornado, struck this town at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. Torrents of rain fell and the wind blew down barns, sheds and other outbuildings, tore up and twisted off a large number of shade trees and scattered lumber in all directions. Two of the 150-foot spans of the Wisconsin river bridge were blown off the piers.

Three Women Paralyzed. GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 8 .- During a heavy thunder storm last night lightning struck the porch of a house at Jeannette, fatally injuring Mrs. Mahoney, her daughter Maggie and Mrs. Krept, a visitor. The women are still living, but are paralyzed. Mother and Son Killed. WHITE HALL, Mich., Sept. 8 .- During an electric storm here last night Mrs. Jacob Smith and a son were instantly killed by lightning. They were sitting in the kitchen with other members of the family, who escaped with a slight shock.

Stricken While Walking. KALAMAZOO, Mich., Sept. 8 .- Charles Bush, a Hollander, aged twenty, was killed by lightning to-day. He was returning from the celery fields with several others, who were shocked but not seriously in-

STRIKE AT AN END. Clothing Workers Secure Concessions from Boss "Sweaters."

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 .- The strike of the clothing workers is virtually at an end.

The executive committee of the Brotherhood of Tailors met to-night, and it was given out that over three-score of contractors had acceded to the demands of the workmen, namely, ten hours work a day and regular weekly wages. As a guarantee of good faith the bosses are to file a bond indorsed by some responsible person or persons, and upon failure of the bosses to carry out their agreement this bond is to be forfeited. The executive committee confers with the bosses to-morrow, when it is expected that all grievances will be settled to the satisfaction of both parties. Novel Claim of Deputies.

CHICAGO, Sept. 8 .- Deputy sheriffs who worked for the county during the strike of the A. R. U. and the trouble that followed it have presented a novel claim to the county board for their services. They have asked for pay at the rate of $5 per day, on the ground that the law provides that the pay of special deputies shall be $2 per day of eight hours, and that while they were in the field they were constantly under orders from the sheriff and practically worked twenty-four hours every calendar day. The members of the American Justice Club number 125, and their claim alone amounts to over $10,000.

An Old Story. TORONTO, Sept. 8.—There is a deficit of nearly $2,000,000 in revenues of the Dominion for the fiscal year ending June 30 last.

INDIANAPOLIS GOT BUT ONE RUN TO MILWAUKEE'S TEN.

Hoosiers Could Do Little with Baker's Curves and Quit on Three Hits -Good Throw by McCarthy.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. MILWAUKEE, Sept. 8.-The Hoosiers were unable to do anything worth speaking about with pitcher Baker's curves to-day, getting but three hits, two of them in the first inning and one in the second. Cross was easy for the "Brewers," and when the game was over seventeen safe drives loomed up in the base-hit column against him. The field work of both teams was very sharp, and five double plays were made. The most brilliant play of the game was made in the seventh inning by leftfielder McCarthy on a throw to the plate, catching Bolan. The visitors' only run came in the first inning on a pretty drive for three bases by Henry and a single by Gray. Mills made the third hit in the second inning. Many of the hits by the "Brewers" were somewhat on the scratch order, and the Hoosiers' errors were made when they counted most for Milwaukee. Milwaukee got two in the first on a base on balls to Goodenough, a double by Carey and a passed ball. Four singles and a double added two in the fourth and two more were scored in the sixth on two singles and a double. A triple and a double scored another in the eighth, and three singles and errors by Mills and Cross scored three in the ninth. Score:

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 8 .- To-day's game was an exhibition of perhaps the most brilliant field play ever witnessed in Kansas City, both clubs doing equally good work in this line. In pitching, however, Jones for Grand Rapids was weak, giving the "Blues" ten bases on balls. Daniels, on the contrary, was remarkably strong. Attendance, 1,000. Score:

LIKE THE OTHERS.

The Indianapolis Club Coming Home After the Usual Disastrous Trip. The ill-starred Indianapolis ball team is nearing the close of another disastrous trip, and, incidentally, the wind-up of a not especially brilliant season. Like its predecessors, the trip has been productive of few victories and many defeats. The record thus far is three games out of sixteen, which, to say the least, is scarcely what the baseball enthusiasts here hoped for. The only fragment of interest left in the race for Indianapolis people is a passing curiosity as to whether or not Detroit is going to beat their club out for sixth

To-day and to-morrow Milwaukee will take two parting cracks at Sharsig's men up there, and then the latter come home to tackle Kansas City on Wednesday. Minne-apolis follows next Saturday for three games, and then come Sioux City and Mil-waukee, the latter being the club that fin-ishes the season here. The present trip will cost the management about $1,800, the receipts having averaged less than $75 a game, and barely covering railroad and hotel bills. The salaries for the three weeks the club has been away are, of course, a dead loss. There will be a rearrangement of the circuit next season. The unprofitable points must go. Westlake caught his first game yesterday. Murphy may be released.

TRICKS IN THE SUGAR TRADE. The Ways of a Combination That Controls Eleven States. Chicago Letter in Boston Transcript.

The methods which are employed by the Sugar Trust to keep up the price of sugar in Illinois and ten other States are said to be questionable, and there is a threatened revolt among some of the wholesale grocers here who make the claim that the trust has resorted to wholesale thievery and has falsified weights. The prices of sugar in Illinois that is, the price at which wholesalers can buy and sell it—are made by the trust, but are enforced and maintained by the Illinois Wholesale Grocers' Association. In each of the eleven States in which the combine is now successfully working there is a similar association, the members of which are willing tools of the trust. In each State the association issues a rate book, which is furnished to all traveling salesmen, and which gives the freight rates on sugar to every point in the State. These books are also issued in the interest of the package-coffee trust and contain similar rates for coffee of this class-that is, roasted coffee put up in packages. On the inside front cover of these books are found the instructions to salesmen. These are the same for each State except that in the examples given to illustrate how sugar must be sold local towns are used. The rules are now in force in Illinois and are printed in the rate books issued to traveling salesmen by the Wholesale Grocers' Association of this State. The books are not printed for general distribution and are very difficult to obtain. All the regulation of prices is done, apparently, by the State Grocers' Association, and the trust keeps out of sight; but if it were not for its threatening power the wholesale grocers of this or any other State could not combine to maintain the price of sugar, both sellin or buying. They would be cutting and slashing prices in no time if the trust did not exert its power, so dealers say. The secret of it all is that the jobbers know that so long as the trust is in power they dare not sell sugar at less than the card rates. Besides, it is to the interest of some to stand in with the deal, for the reason that they are assured of a fixed certain profit in every pound of sugar they handle. They can hold their rates, too, in this line of goods without any trouble for the simple reason that no other jobber, no matter where located, can undersell them. In the event, however, that a member of the association does cut prices he will bitterly regret it. The penalty for such a mistake would be that he could neither buy nor sell sugar again, and his trade would be divided among the other members of the associa-

It would be supposed that the trust, hav-ing reached that point where it is enabled to control both the buying and selling price of the commodity which it produces, would be content to stop there. But the Sugar Trust, of which William A. Havemyer is the head, is not content. It is not satisfied with controlling the prices and output of sugar; it goes one step further, and, in the flat language of a wholesale dealer to me, to-day, "makes 20 cents on every barrel of sugar it sells by falsifying the weight."

"A few days ago," he says, "I stood in a certain store in this city and saw barrel after barrel of sugar emptied and weighed and in each case there was a cheat of four pounds to the barrel in the tare. "A barrel marked 'tare, 19 pounds,' was always found to weigh 23, and a barrel marked 'tare, 21,' never failed to tip the beam empty at 25, and down weight at that. This gives me more trouble than anything else. I sell to pretty heavy buyers, who dump their sugar and weigh their barrels in order to see that they get honest weights. It was in that way I discovered that the trust was cheating me in every barrel of sugar I bought of them. "But," continued the merchant, "that is not the worst of it. When my customers came back on me with a claim for short-age which I had allowed, I sent in my claim to the trust and asked that they make it right. They refused point blank to allow my claim and added insult to injury by telling me that if I did not like it I could go elsewhere and buy my sugar. But the trust soon may be forced to give honest weights. The dealers are getting tired of such treatment and arrangements are being made to hold a meeting of the wholesale grocers the object of which will be to devise ways and means to bring the trust to time. We may resort to the

Claim of the Mutual Benefit Associa-

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 .- Holders of policies in the Mutual Benefit Life Association will lose nothing by the winding up of the affairs of that corporation is the promise of President W. H. Whiton to-day. The State insurance department, after careful investigation, had directed that proceedings be instituted for appointment of a receiver, the liabilities of the association, as alleged, being far in excess of the assets. But Mr. Whiton said to-day that all pollcies would be reinsured in a stronger company, which one he could not say because of the negotiations toward that end not being yet concluded. The Mutual Benefit Life, Mr. Whiton said, has a reserve fund of $100,000 and Whether this will amount to 50 per cent. or 75 per cent., he said, would depend largely upon the expenses of the receivership. The company has written no policies for a month past. THE CLERK, OF FORTY YEARS AGO.

Hardware. "I was telling you the other day," said the old man from Ohio, "about the hard-ware store of my youth. I had the privilege when I was a boy of serving for a couple of years as a clerk in a country store, and I want to say to you that the clerks of to-day, especially in the larger towns, know no more about what we boys had to go through forty years ago in learning the mercantile business than a hen knows about politics. As I understand it, they get down to the store from 8 to 9 o'clock in the morning and leave somewhere from 5 to 6, have a porter to do all the heavy work for them, and feel somewhat put out if the suggestion is made to them to do anything outside of their immediate clerical duties. In my day and in the country our hours were a little different from these, and our labor was, as you might term it, somewhat diversified. When I was about fifteen years old I came to the conclusion that I had outgrown the demands and opportunities of our farm up on the Ainsley Ridge, and that a great and glorious mercantile career was spreading out before me. A few months of argument upon the part of my mother and myself persuaded father that my views were entirely correct, and he gave me permission to go down to the Corners and see what arrangements I could make. Clad in my best clothes and mount-ed on the old horse, I went over and had an interview with Uncle Ira Crane, who was running a general store, with a hardware, dry-goods and butter and wool attachment. Uncle Ira was a little dublous about my usefulness, but finally agreed to try me for six months at the rate of $40 per year and my board and lodging. It was a proud day when I first entered upon my mercantile career. My duties were somewhat lighter than those of the average hired man upon the farm—that is, I got up at 5 o'clock in winters and 4 in summers; built Uncle Ira's fire at home; took care of his horse and milked the cow; had breakfast, and got to the store at 6 a. m. After sweeping out, I was allowed to revel in the full ambition of mercantile possession until the proprietor came around. My labors for the rest of the day were diversified somewhat according to the season. Occasionally I was permitted to sell goods but usually I was found in the cellar pack ing butter or eggs or baling paper rags, or in the warehouse tramping wool, mowing away dried apples, or in labors of that character. I had to cut all the wood for the house and store, and haul most of it from the woods. Was sent to the nearest from the woods. Was sent to the nearest market town about two days in the week for merchandise or to haul away butter or egg barrels. Was permitted occasionally to act the part of hackman for some stray traveler, driving some twenty miles through slush and mud. Toward evening when the outside labors of the day were disposed of and the chores all done, I was allowed to come into the store wash up and measure come into the store, wash up and measure out groceries, etc., until about 10:30 o'clock, when, after the last loafer had yawned and gone home to bed, I was able to put up the shutters and retire to my well-earned rest, It was a great occasion, and the height of my ambition was satisfied when I was permitted to enter the dry goods or notion department and wait upon the village girls who came into the store to shop. Toward the end of the second year, when I was advanced to $50 per annum, I was permitted to assist in the postoffice department, which had become the possession of Uncle Ira through a sudden change in the administration. Three years of this service did not make a Stewart of me, but it did develop that I gradually came to the conclusion that merchandising was not my forte; so I graduated into the patent-right business, and from that I have evoluted along the line of progress until I am to-day what you see me—the retail hustler of a New York life insurance company."

that of the average country clerk. But the labor therein so far exceeded the prof-its that I gradually came to the conclusion
